Post Office Letter List. Gen. Wm. Welker left on the afternoon train yesterday for New Orleans, via Memphis. We hope before the year class to hear of his successful entree into Nicaragua at the head of a force sufficient to maintain his government.

The Nashville Theatre.

The lovers of theatrical amusements will be glad to learn that the THEATRE will shortly be opened for the fall and winter season. The building is at present undergoing extensive alteration and thorough renovation. The interior is to be handsomely decorated from designs by Mr. H. M. Akroyd, the popular Architect of this city, executed by Charles Guita, the well-known] fresco painter, in wery handsome style. It will be entirely changed from what it was last season, and for the better, we are warranted in saying by the character of the artists engaged. We have heard of a quantity of hardsome wood carving to be done by Dobson on Church street; and we note our jolly friend Hargrave and his corps decorating the front exterior.

Mr. Davis informs us that his arrangements for a stock company are complete. It will consist in part of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Van Deren, who, during their short stay last season, made many warm friends, Mrs. Jas. Bowlden, Mrs. Joel Davis, a native of Nashville, and an old favorite; Miss Kate Partington, Miss Fowler, and Mrs. Lord ; Messrs. J. W Martin, Louis Blake, J. A. Lord, G. C. Charles, J. Davis McGie, Lister, Gill, and Arnold. Jas Bowlden, scenic artist.

The stars slready engaged are Mr. Charles, Irish Comedian; John Drew and Lady; Jus. Waltack, Jr., and Mrs. Wallack, lately arrived from London; W. J. Florence and Lady; J. Collins; New Orleans Opera Troupe; Martinette Troupe, &c. &c. Mr. D. is also negotiating with Miss Eliza Logan; Miss Charlotte Cushman ; the Keller Troupe ; Barney Williams and wife; and other popular theatr .cal celebrities. With the array of talent employed by Mr. Davis we shall look for the most successful season ever played in our city.

We have received from the publishers, Messrs. Graves, Marks & Co., of this city, a copy of the 8th Annual Catalogue of the Officers and Students of Union University, Murfreesboro', Tenn. We learn from it that during the past term there were 222 students in attendance, representing the States of Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Louisians, Texas, Illinois, Arkansas, and California.

This firm is composed of industrious, enterprising, accomplished business men, who understand the wants of the trade, and are thoroughly pre pared to cater to them.

The island of Fernando Po, which has recently changed from Spanish to British rule, is sitnated on the West African coast, a few miles off the mouth of the river Niger. It has a surface of about one thousand square miles, and an estimated population of fifteen thousand souls. It is noted for its salubrity for whites. The intention of the the British government is to establish there a commercial depot for its explorations of the Niger, and for the purposes of trade on that great natural highway of Africa.

Capt. E. T. Kendrick informed the editor of the Tampa, Fla., Peninsular, that he discovered on Fish Eating Creek, a live oak tree, which measures thirty-seven feet in circumference, and cast a shade at noon, forty-five yards in diameter. Capt. K.'s company, numbering eighty-five mon, dined under this tree, and fastened their horses to its limbs.
